

New Jersey's Telephone Consumer Protection Act has been instrumental in improving the quality of life for millions of citizens who have a right to be protected in their homes from unwanted intrusion from telemarketers. There is no just and valid reason to overturn this law.

Erma C. Sobol